Spiritual Practices to Nurture Your Public Witness

How can spiritual formation shape our public engagement?

We asked Steve Eng from the NAE to help us understand how spiritual formation should inform our public engagement. Eng shared how practicing spiritual disciplines can help us cultivate a non-anxious presence and foster hope rather than fear as we enter the public square.

Click below to learn about five disciplines can practice to help shape your public witness.

New Resources from our Network

Check out some great resources from past conference speakers and other friends from our network!

The Disrupters Podcast: Season 6

"For its sixth season, hosted by Nicole Massie Martin, The Disrupters podcast asks the question, "What does it mean to disrupt leadership?"

Join Nicole as she explores the ways that Christians can disrupt unhealthy leadership structures and practices. In these insightful conversations, Nicole and her guests offer stories of their own leadership successes and failures to inspire us to crucify our leadership idols and nail our outdated leadership practices to the cross."

Dr. Ed Uszynski on Untangling Critical Race Theory

"In this episode of the Be the Bridge podcast, guest host Darryl Ford engages in a deep conversation with Dr. Ed Uszynski about critical race theory and its implications for racial reconciliation within the church. This episode is a must-listen for anyone interested in the intersection of faith and social justice."

CHRISTIANITY MAPS OUT A BOOK, Unraveling Critical Race Theory, and the historical context of CRT.

You'll hear about the importance of understanding systemic racism and the role of the church in addressing issues of race and justice. Their discussion is for everyone and will bring clarity and discernment to a topic mostly misunderstood and mischaracterized.*
